

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

PRESS CONTACT:

Serena Thomas

SS | PR

847/415-9312

sThomas@sspr.com

Professionals face losing their license at least once in their career: First of its kind company offers comprehensive protection against license loss.

BALTIMORE, MD – May 17th 2007 – Hundreds of professionals now have the chance to protect their licenses at an affordable price, covering them up to $100,000 in order to fight off legal fees and other costs associated with State and Federal License Board hearings.

SML Holdings has developed a membership company with the specific intention of helping license holders get through License Board and Administrative actions against them, as a result of complaints made by the public.

SaveMyLicense.com covers nearly every profession, from architect to zoologist, offering three levels of protection; $25,000, $50,000 and $100,000. This covers legal fees and any fines that the license holder may incur.

Complaints by members of the public often lead to License Board hearings, which can result in loss of license. Losing a professional license means losing one's livelihood, unnecessary financial and emotional stress in the family and little to no chance of regaining the license and returning to work within the same industry.

According to the Better Business Bureau, total complaints across all industries went from 755,713 in 2005 to 833,999 in 2006, an increase of 10% in just 1 year. If trends continue, more professionals will see their licenses increasingly threatened.

Raymond Miller, President of SaveMyLicense.com emphasises just how important this protection is. "When a person's license is under threat, it's absolutely critical that all licensed professionals have the resources and access to experienced legal counsel on short notice to effectively fight for their good name and their livelihood." Miller notes that hundreds of professionals have no protection at all against such action. Many, in fact, believe that the Malpractice or E&O insurance will cover them in this case. This is not so. Many of these types of insurance policies only cover up to a very limited amount of funds, tend to have costly premiums and don't allow much freedom in choosing a legal representative.

- more -

‘SaveMyLicense.com’ (Page 2)

Other professionals believe that if such an incident were to occur, their employer would cover them. Again, not so. Employers’ insurance policies do not cover employees. Licenses are the sole responsibility of the license holder.

These beliefs provide more evidence that SaveMyLicense.com is a well-founded company ready to provide members the professional legal help that is necessary to save their career.

SaveMyLicense.com also offers other perks such as freedom in choosing a preferred attorney, tax benefits, personal email communications, 24-hour customer service and affordable yearly fees starting from just $49 pa. Sign-up is quick and easy at www.savemylicense.com where you can also find all the professions that are covered.

SaveMyLicense.com is owned and operated by SML Holdings Corporation, which is securely financed and registered with the U.S. Department of Commerce, the Better Business Bureau, and VeriSign. All communications and case data are also kept in strict confidence.

About SaveMyLicense.com

Save My License (www.savemylicense.com) is the first and only professional membership organization dedicated solely to the legal protection of members engaged in state licensing board actions. Backed by Delaware-based parent company SML Holding Corporation, Save My License is registered with the Department of Commerce, the Better Business Bureau, and VeriSign, and has created marketing partnerships with Google, Yahoo!, MSN, and others .Save My License offers trusted, secure, and reliable protection for physicians, chiropractors, architects, accountants, real estate brokers/agents, nurses, therapists, optometrists, home inspectors, real estate appraisers, attorneys, and many other professionals.

Website: www.savemylicense.com

###